Code of Conduct of the LMU Munich School of Management

"For those who create economic value to advance and sustain society,
LMU Munich School of Management is the trusted home of knowledge, evidence, and solutions.
We embrace diversity and develop personalities who act with integrity and excellence."

In line with our claim, the LMU Munich School of Management is committed to the values of good scientific practice and integrity, open exchange and transparency, non-violence, diversity and equality. All members of LMU Munich who conduct research, teach, study, or work at the LMU Munich School of Management are called upon to respect these values.

As a matter of strategic relevance and importance, this code of conduct and any violations of its guidelines, regulations and provisions are managed by the Faculty Board of the LMU Munich School of Management, led by the Dean, and including the women's representative of the LMU Munich School of Management.

More detailed regulations, provisions, and contacts can be found here:

- Ethics Committee of the LMU Munich School of Management
- Regulations of the LMU Munich for ensuring good scientific practice, dated November 17, 2023
- Guideline on the prevention of, protection against, and handling of cases of discrimination, harassment, sexual harassment, and sexual violence at LMU Munich, dated December 13, 2023.
- Gender Equality Plan of the LMU Munich, dated March, 2022.
- LMU Women's Representative

We further point to the following general provisions:

- General Act on Equal Treatment
- Bavarian Higher Education Innovation Act
- Crimes Against Sexual Self-Determination
- DFG Guidelines for Good Research Practice