

Scientific Publications Winter Term 2024/25

Instructor: Prof. Dr. Grohsjean, Prof. Khashabi, Ph.D.

Language: English

What is this course about and what will I gain from this course?

In this course, students are introduced to the "publication game". The course deals with thoughts about how to generate research ideas and how to plan a research project, how to position a paper and how to manage the R&R process. The pros and cons of different publication strategies are discussed. Students will also learn on which criteria editors and reviewers base their decisions about a submission. Therefore, the course helps students to understand and to manage the publication process. Emerging developments, trends, and issues in conducting and publishing academic research will be discussed.

How is the course conducted?

- The course consists of three in-person sessions that are mandatory to attend.
- The course is held in English.
- Deadline for handing in the extended abstract: End of January (exact date will be specified in the course)
- Grading: Extended abstract of a current research project
- Course credit: 3 ECTS

What is the course schedule?

Date	Time	Place	Topic
10.12.2024	9:00 - 12:30	Kaulbachstr. 45, room 202	Developing the front end of the paper
10.12.2024	14:00 - 17:00	Kaulbachstr. 45, room 202	Compelling empirical strategies
11.12.2024	9:00 - 12:30	Kaulbachstr. 45, room 202	Practical exercise: Writing an introduction
11.12.2024	14:00-17:00	Kaulbachstr. 45, room 202	Framing a paper Understanding the review process Developing a research agenda